Contribution of primary health care teams to equity in universal access to health services

Since Alma Ata Declaration, 40 years ago, the Health Service Systems has undergone significant changes, but those achievements are unevenly distributed, with an increasing number of people without coverage by basic health services. Advances in technology, including the arrival of big data, together with the adoption of evidence-based care models have been transformative.

Maternal mortality in Mexico - A biological event; A social process

The 21st century is the century of knowledge, technology, but especially, the full exercise of Human Rights. In Mexico, the right to health protection is embodied in the Political Constitution and imposes on the state and its institutions the obligation to protect this essential right.
